The complementary nature of the two companies will enable us to serve our customers with an extensive offering in a wide range of fields, including defense, healthcare and residential services. We are delighted to welcome a top-quality team who will find their place and have a strong impact in accelerating the company's development."

David Dray, President of Casanova, adds: "We are delighted to participate in CAE Data's strategic development, bringing complementary expertise in VDI, smart home and smart building. This merger will enable us to continue innovating on behalf of our customers. In CAE Data, we have found human and responsible values in harmony with the choices that have always guided us."

Thomas Ribéreau, Partner at Argos Wityu, concluded: "The acquisition of Casanova is in line with TKH France's development plan by external growth in Europe. This first acquisition opens new markets while strengthening its solid expertise in the connectivity solutions segment".
